STANDING OF THE TEAMS.

Special to The Washington Herald. Chicago, June 5 .- For the third consecutive time this season Dr. G. Harrison White, of Washington, trimmed the Nationals.

The Sox played a peppery game behind the high-toned pitching of "Doc" White, and got back to the .500 mark.

There was the old time kill-em-quick method in evidence. The former champs were up on their toes, and had the game a man was out in the first inning. Burns pitched a corker of a game for the Nationals, but he had the misfortune to hit Eddie Hahnswith the first ball he pitched. A single by Manager Jones followed, and after Davis was saved on a nasty bounder to the third sack, John Anderson won the game with a smash to left field, which nearly maimed Shipke as it whizzed past his leg. There was nothing more stirring for the Sox, but White's curves were so fancy that the left-handed hitters on the visitors stood on their heads trying to

Up to the fifth inning the dentist had the Nationals eating out of his hand, and as the Sox took a lead by securing two runs in the opening round, the locals felt reasonably safe from harm. The opening game of the Western series was made quite an affair-not so much on account of the opening as because Joe Cantillon happened to be in charge of the Nationals. The Sox rooters foregathered with a brass band. which tooted sour notes in Joe's honor for an hour before the game and at the close of every inning. The rooters went even further than that. The game was raggedly played throughout. Killian was hit hard, and Cicotte was wild, retiring in favor of Winter, who was not hit to any extent till the ninth. Schmidt's playing was the feature. Seere

It is really the handwork which counts, and you'll find it in even our $15 suits. Good handwork, we mean, not a few helter-skelter stitches-a "bluff" at handwork -but handwork that counts-handfelling of the coliar and lapels and careful handstitching on the fronts to prevent sagging.

In all the Parker-Bridget Serge Suits there is used nothing but good all-wool serge that has been tested, both by lying in the sun and rain for weeks, and by actual wear for years and years.

We are using the same serge that we used four or five years ago, with an improvement, of course, in the quality, which comes every year. There is no better
